Excerpt: .farmers in introducing disease-resistant varieties, and methods of cropping. In the State serum laboratory, with which the veterinarian is connected, studies were made regarding the action of various serums, their manufacture and use. The veterinarian also continued to render service to the State live stock sanitary board in the bacteriologic diagnoses of animal diseases. A breeding circuit at New Salem, including about 200 cows owned by different farmers in that community, was conducted as a part of the cooperative work of the station. The 24 demonstration farms, located in as many counties and in counties containing no substations, give the station an opportunity to demonstrate the value of its experiments for practical results. The wrk on these farms has brought out very forcibly the value of crop rotation and the use of varieties adapted to the different regions. It has also shown that the soils of the State in general are short in their supply of phosphoric acid, while the supply of potash in nitrogen is apparently strong at the present time. The following publications were received from this station during the year: Bulletins 88, Windbreaks and Hedges; 8!), Wheat Investigations--Milling, Baking, and Chemical Tests; Special Food Bulletins 24-30; Paint Bulletins 4 and 5; the Annual Report for 1910; and the Annual Reports of the Dickinson Substation for 1909 and 1910. The income of the station during the past fiscal year was as follows: United States appropriation, Hatch Act $14,447.72 United States appropriation, Adams...
