II.--English Monet. A farthing is written d. The standard coins of English money are the sovereign (gold), shilling (silver), and penny (copper); the guinea = 21 shillings; the crown = 5 shillings. 191. III.--French Money. The standard gold coin is the 20-franc piece, or Louis. The standard silver coins are the franc and half franc and five franc pieces. Commercial computations are made in francs and centimes, which are written decimally, like the United States dollars and cents. Note 1.--The year consists of 365.2422 days, or very nearly 365 days. Our common year is made to consist of 365 days, and the odd quarter is allowed for by adding one day to every fourth year, which gives the leap year. This is adding or 25 hundredths of a day to each year, which is rather too much, since the real excess of one year over 365 days is.2422 of a day. This makes our average year.0078 of a day too long, which amounts to one day in about 128 years, or to about 3 days in 4 centuries. To allow for this, only one out of four of the years which close the centuries are allowed to be leap years. Note 2.--The year is divided into 12 months, called Calendar Months. The names and number of days in each are as follows: --In every leap year, there are 29 days in February. All the other months contain...
